Smith's Tonic Syrup, The Best and Spirst Remoty for Chills and Fever, or Fever and Agne. COVINGTON, Kv., May 21. There has not been for many years, in this country such a general complaint about chills and fever. This depressing disease is now prevailing in many portions of Kentucky and elsewhere, where the per ple have long flattered themselves that they were entirely exempt from its influence. To those who are thus afflicted, we wish to recommend Smith's Tonic Syrup, believing it to be the very best remedy exant. Every one we have heard of using it, pron es upon it in the very highest terms. We have ly used it in our family with marked success. The ents are simple, and the Tonic can be used freely without any detriment to the constitution what ever. If the directions, which always accompany every bottle, are carefully followed, it will in nine ca see out of ten result in a permanent cure, whether the disease be of long or short standing.

We take pleasure in recommending this medicir to the subjects of this disease everywhere, sincerely selieving that the use of it will verify every word we For sale by C. B. Bickford & Co., Troy, Kansas. A Card.

DEATH OF GEORGE W. COWGER-G. W. Cowger, of Burr-Oak, died on the Cox farm, one mile north of Troy, on last Saturday evening, after a brief illness The following are the circumstances of his death: Burr-Oak Bottom is becoming very unwholesome, since the overflow of the river, and many residents are getting out on to high ground. Among these was Mr. Cowger, who rented the Cox place, adjoining Moses Townsend's. He was engaged in moving, on luesday, and had trouble in driving his cattle, causing him to do much running. He became so over-heated, when near the piace of Michel Pfennig, and vas so large and heavy, that he gave out, and was elled to lie down in the shade. Dr. Cash was ent for, who found him in a precarious condition Against the Dector's judgment, Mr. Cowger was brought to the place where the family had moved. He continued to grow worse, until Saturday evening, when he died. Internal mortification had taken place. The remains were buried at the Courter grave-yard, on Sunday. Mr. Cowger was a native of Indiana, and was aged about 48 years. He was an old settler of Burr-Oak Township, and was one of the best citizens of the County. He served in the Union army, as a member of the 13th Kansas. He leaves a wife and a number of children. He was a man whose death will be a loss to the community.

LP A boy named White, aged sixteen or seventeen years, a brother-in-law of M. L. Zimmerman, and who resides with Mr. Z., received a blow, some two weeks ago, which is likely to cause his death. It seems that he was in the habit of domineering over and imposing upon a younger boy who was working at the same place, and on the day in question, had knocked him down several times. He then pursue the boy with a piece of iron, and threw it at him, but it missed its aim, and went on ahead. When the other boy came to the iron, he picked it up, and struck at his pursuer with it, striking him on the forchead, and fracturing his skull. For a day or two, White could be around, but his wound grew vorse, his brain becoming involved, and it is not doubtful whether he can recover.

Schletzbaum & Schnell, of Doniphan, are again n the market, with the celebrated Gundlich Grain day, in which a defunct insurance company, of Leavenworth, sued W. T. Stewart, of the Hiawatha Dis patch, on a note. It seems that Stewart took stock in the company, to be paid for in advertising in the Wa thena Reporter, giving his note for the remainder that was not so paid at the time of subscribing. No dividend was ever declared, but the concern failed, and the note went into the hands of an "innocent purchaser," who brought suit. The "innocent pu haser" was scooped.

nests to state how the vote on enforcing the herd law stood in the County Board. Some people are hard to satisfy. It has been several times stated how the members voted, and they have not tried to conceal their own action. We will again state, that Mr. Long and Mr. Deckard voted to enforce the here law, and Mr. Leland voted against it.

PRY & MURRAY.—We call attention to the card o Pry & Murray, auctioneers and cattle brokers, at Severance. We observe a number of advertisements, from Troy, in which the physicians give the name of the college and number of the class in which they graduthis, or the production of a diploma, from every prac-titioner of medicine; then we would not be impose tence of their victims. Every desire for blackberries is fully gratified, and still they abound in large quantities. It is scrprising to behold the fragments of calico and wilted pa-per collars left in the patches. We were out once, and found something that was very nice-one fellow was quite sure it was not a sleeve-holder, and as n person knew the owner of the article, it was left at a uitable place, for public inspection. In this vicinity, pears, peaches and grapes will be abundant. In fact, the pear crop will be heavy, for the amount of trees growing. I never saw trees hang so full anywhere; they are literally breaking down with fruit, and in many instances the limbs have to be propped up, to keep them from breaking down. A pear tree in Hank Beardsley's front yard is a sight to look at. It is a small tree, but I should judge there are at least three bushels of pears on it. Pear trees ave suffered badly from blight, though. I saw one blighted limb, cut from a tree, which contained forty five large pears. Too bad. The cause of pear blight is supposed to be too fast growth in too rich land. I is supposed to be too fast growth in too rich land. I am told by a successful fruit grower, that pear trees never blight on poor land. The same gentleman says e has fifteen or twenty pear trees growing on a stony, clayey hillside, and while he has had a fair crop of pears every year, the blight has never affected his blight. The best and only plan found, so far, is to split the bark on trunk and limbs, which allows the wood to grow, as it does, faster than the bark. As the wound in the bark made by the knife soon heals, no injury is done to the tree.

The blackberry crop has been the largest ever gathered in the County, both wild and cultivated. The wild fruit has excelled the cultivated in flavor and quality, if not in size.

He was sitting by the mill-dam, last week, fishing. atiently he waited for a nibble. At last the red cork bobbed up and down, and then went ker-chug! under the water. Oh, it was a glorious bite! He took both hands, and gave the pole an awful yank. The line sizzed through the air backwards, and the hook caught in the seat of a pair of pantaloons belonging to an old gentleman who was viewing the sport fro the bank above, and jerked him into the water. The old man lost his spectacles, and his hat floated off down the creek; but the boy who caused the mischief was humping it down the railroad track, when the victim came cussing wet to shore. Ripe plums in market, at five cents per quart. A man was seen driving his cow out of a neighbor rden, very early in the morning, one day last week after the cow had torn down a lot of corn, tramp nelon, cucumber and tomato vines to pieces, had done damage to the amount of several dollars As this was the third time said cow had been in that same garden, of course the man who worked hard to sise it was mad-awful mad. But when the gener ous man who owned the cow went to his poor neigh bor, and said : "Mr. ____, my cow was in your gar-den, and has destroyed part of it, assess the damage and I will pay it; I can afford to do so, while you cannot afford to lose your garden," it almost melted the m honest, charitable, Christian gentleman. Yes, he ctually took out his bandans handkerchief, and blew his mose six times, he was so moved. And falling upon his knees, he said: "May the Lord bless at tiply you, even unto the tenth generation preachy cattle." See that, now! Blessing his rich neighbor's breachy cattle! A cow trial came off in Esquire Fairall's Court, one day last week, in which a citizen brought suit against it was alleged the latter shot while she was "raiding" his garden. The jury split. [We'll bet the owner of that cow is opposed to the herd law, and in favor of letting his cattle forage a subsistence off other people. The herd law will stop these cattle fends between neighbors, except in places like White Cloud, where they already brag that they will not obey it.-Pr.] There is a perfect rage among the boys for vending refreshments at the depot, and hawking them upon the streets. The enterprise of the boys is commenda-ble, but we should like to cantion them, that when they find one or two doing well in any line, there should not so many go into the business as to kill it off. Perhaps there is room enough for all, if they will only diversify their operations.
